Shawsheen Mill Conversion Begins Soon

Football Rivalries Continue Over Holiday Weekend

Punchard's Blue Devils take on Methuen's Rangers in what is perhaps the biggest game of the year for both teams Monday at 10 a.m. at the Playstead. Spirit is running high at both schools for this traditional game, with each school holding rallies and making speeches to encourage their players. The incentive which causes all this commotion is mainly the Edward Erickson Junior Trophy, which goes to the victor of this game.

The "Little Three" title is also at stake, and since Methuen has already defeated North Andover, the other "Little Three" member, Punchard, must defeat the Rangers to stay in the running for the row.

Andover is going into the 77th Andover-Exeter game Saturday at Brothers Field with a four loss, two win record — as opposed to Exeter's six won, no loss record. This obviously makes the Exeter team a favorite which, according to the record, makes sense but according to tradition, is ridiculous.

Andover is going into the game with all of its players having worked their way up to the varsity team through a JV football system which includes five JV teams, all with complete outside schedules and their own coaching staffs. Up through the ranks is Captain Jimmy D'Angelo, a starter at tackle and the first local Andover boy elected captain of the Academy Team since Leo Daley.

Records Broken By Huge Vote; Williams Elected

A record-shattering 93 percent vote was recorded here Tuesday — when 8492 of the 9124 registered voters cast their ballots.

And they gave overwhelming endorsement to the candidacy of Atty. Arthur Williams, seeking a seat in the House of Representatives. He polled 6394 votes here, leading a six-man field in every precinct. Rep. Frank S. Giles ran second and Rep. William Longworth was third in the town's balloting.

By far the best vote-getter here was Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, who led the field with

Acme Problem Goes To Court

A court decision on the use of the old Cross Coal yards on Fletcher st., by Acme Concrete Co., will be given by the courts.

The firm this week sought to file a writ for a declaratory judgment in Superior Court. Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis said the writ was filed by the Stoneham firm, setting forth its version of the legal problems raised over a period of many months. Town counsel will also file the town's statement of facts relating to Acme's opera-

Town's Telephone Trouble Temporary

The Telephone Co. is expanding its switchboard facilities here to improve local service.

Frank P. Desmond, manager of the Lawrence office, told the TOWNSMAN this week that two additional switchboard positions are being installed. A third position, on a board to handle incoming calls, number changes and the like is also being put in. This position will double the present incoming call facilities, (Continued on Page 17)

Firm Says Work For Army Is In No Way Dangerous

An immediate goal of 1000 employees by next September has been set by the Raytheon Manufacturing Co. for the Shawsheen Mills.

Since its announcement last weekend that Army Ordnance contracts worth $35,000,000 had been secured, Raytheon has moved swiftly to begin conversion of the plant and property. At an estimated cost of six million dollars, the firm will rapidly move in with contractors' crews to put the building in shape for an electronic production program.

Building Spree Demonstrated By October Permits

New home construction figures in October apparently hit a new high for the town.

Building Inspector Ralph W. Coleman yesterday announced that permits for new homes valued at $606,800 were issued during the month. Some 32 houses, all with garages, were listed as approved for construction after scrutiny by town boards, the selectmen and building inspector.

Andover insurance agents will have an answer "by early in December" on their renewed request for a share of the town's insurance business.

Selectman Sidney P. White promised to have a reply by that time, following a meeting Monday morning with representatives of several agencies seeking a share of the annual business. Presently Smart and Flagg agency writes all town insurance and sends a (Continued on Page 16)

Use Of Fear Technique

Quite a lot has been said lately about fear.

John O'Connell spoke about it at the special town meeting — pointing out that many taxpayers have become frightened by the tax jump. And he further said he would not be pressured into voting on an issue because someone tried to scare him into it.

Later in the week, Mr. White spoke about fear — and pointed out that a calm approach, not a scared one, is required by the times. He suggested that men and women in Andover will find that things will work out alright — that there is no reason for fear.

We hasten to support that thesis — there is no reason to panic. We do not face any problems that are not confronting taxpayers in most communities in the state and, perhaps, in the nation. It is a time for reasonable action, based on long-range thinking — not a time for hasty, ill-thought-out action based on fear.

When any person deliberately sets out to frighten his fellow voters into acting as he wants, then its time to call a halt. And that applies to any citizen or any town official who tries to use a fear motive to get some specific plan adopted by the town.

It's fine to be cautious. It's wise to consider proposals in the lights of their merit. But it is outrageous to scare people into taking some action or other. When that happens, we have to wonder how much merit there is to the particular proposal, that it requires a fear motive to put it across.

There has been more than one attempt lately to put ideas across from a fear standpoint. It's time to stop.

Manager Plan Merits

Apparently town officials see some good in the town manager plan.

For elected officials, meeting jointly last week, agreed to adopt a budget deadline that more or less coincides with recommendations in the proposed manager charter.

The charter would require a manager to have his budget ready in early December for the following year. It would then be discussed at hearings.

Now the elected officials, possible because they see some real value in at least that portion of the manager plan, have adopted an early budget date. As it stands now, through cooperative agreement rather than any legal requirement, the town budgets will be prepared in tentative form by Dec. 15 and in final form by Jan. 18. There will be hearings on all the budgets, giving voters an opportunity to discuss each budget separately. The Finance committee and Taxpayers association will be asked to attend those sessions also — as a means of cutting down the number of meeting. It is recalled that last year, for instance, boards not only spent long hours preparing their budgets — they then sat down with the Finance committee and, at another time, went over the ground again with the Taxpayers association.

We think the early preparation of budgets is a fine thing. It gives everyone a chance to make suggestions and to consider the requests seriously and without haste. That was one of the many reasons why we recommended adoption of the manager plan — and we are, of course, glad to welcome aboard some town officials who now apparently see that all is not wrong in the manager plan; that it does indeed, have some good points.

Brownie Troop 4, under the leadership of Mrs. Bruno Wojtkun, started its yearly program Oct. 22. The girls decided to learn how to knit a stretch scarf.

Girl Scout Troop 68, led by Mrs. Thomas Thumser, assisted by Mrs. Roger Lewis, began its sessions Oct. 11 at the Old North School. Because of double sessions at the West school, the girls meet Thursday mornings and carry their lunches to the meeting. The youngsters are beginning their second class requirements and are presently at work on arts and crafts. They chose to make covered jars with twisted crepe paper where they can create their own designs in color. For Thanksgiving, the girls are making nut cups for their families.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — November, 1906

An unfortunate shooting accident took place in the town last Saturday afternoon. A Phillips academy student was fatally wounded by a chum in a house at the corner of Main and School streets.

Editorial cinder: "One of the town's nuisances that ought to be abated is that caused by the large congregation of loiterers around the front of the Memorial Hall library. If they were all quiet and inoffensive it would not be quite so serious but when to their presence is added the tobacco spit and offensive language of boisterous youths, they become a real nuisance. Steps should be taken to abate it."

The 10th anniversary of the Merrimack Valley League of Kings' Daughters was held in the South church on Thursday afternoon and evening. And despite the very disagreeable weather, there was a large attendance at both meetings.

Claude Nicoll arrived from Arbroath, Scotland, Sunday on the Cymric. He reported a very rough voyage.

Robert Clois Brown, P.A. 1906, a well-known and prominent athlete in the academy, having played end on the football team and catcher on the baseball team, was unanimously elected captain of the Harvard Freshmen football team at a meeting held recently.

Some beautiful chrysanthemums were left in this office by a visitor Wednesday. The man grows some beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Berry have returned from New York and are residing in the former's home on Chestnut st.

Supt. Andrew McTernan of Tyler Rubber company has returned to Andover after having enjoyed a month's tour through the western states.

25 Years Ago — November, 1931

Local telephone subscribers have voted to keep the present exchange, although the count of ballots showed that many subscribers favored consolidation with Lawrence. The vote was 820 to 750 in favor of keeping the independent exchange. It had been pointed out that going into the Lawrence exchange would mean higher rates for both Andover and Lawrence. Telephone company officials had asked that ballots be sent by the selectmen in order to handle the subject fairly. They now say there will be no further referenda on the subject as this was the third such vote taken during the past few years.

Punchard retained its undefeated record for the season by defeating Methuen last Wednesday. But the victory was earned the hard way, as Methuen threatened to score time and again. The final score was 3-0, with Harry Gouck kicking the field goal in the final quarter from the 15 yard line. Methuen outclassed Punchard during the first half but the local lads came back strong in the second half. They couldn't score however. This was Methuen's seventh win over Methuen in as many years.

Capt. George Dane has been parents about leaving fire where their children can get of them. He asked that special care be taken during this season when so many adults using shot guns and rifles, addition to the Ballardvale youngster who shot himself accidentally last week, Dane disarmed two other children over the weekend who were indiscriminate shooting in heavily-populated areas of the town.

A selection of the best books for children will be shown at the Memorial Hall during Book Week, Nov. 16-21.

A turkey whist party will be sponsored by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post next Wednesday evening in their quarters. Live turkey will be the first prize.

The long-awaited dedication of the organ in South church will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with an elaborate inspiring program planned.

10 Years Ago — November, 1946

A herdsman has been held by Police for setting fire to a barn in West Andover. Ernest Courtenay's barn was destroyed early Saturday morning, with damage amounting to an estimated $20,000. Fire fighters managed to save the Loosigian barn, however, with only partial damage to the structure. The herdsman was taken into custody when his actions caused his employer, Sidney White, to become suspicious. He said man had reported stamping a small fire in White's barn. Police said the herdsman later confessed setting all three barns on fire, setting several fires in Framingham a few months ago. He has been released nearly two years ago from the federal penitentiary where he served an Armed Forces sentence for setting a fire at a hospital at Camp Edwards.

The Baptist church will be baked bean supper on Saturday, Nov. 23, in the vestry. A sale also be held, starting at 2 p.m.

The Andover Parent-Teacher association is sponsoring a house in the schools next week as part of American Education week.

License fees are no exception to the rising cost of doing business. The selectmen this year increased fees for both public stores and establishments, and all alcoholic beverages. The fee was $250 — now it is $500. The selectmen also said there probably will be an increase for places serving beers and wines, although much higher it will be over present $100 has not yet been decided.

Andover and Exeter academies will meet in their 66th game this row at Brothers field. Punchard will meet Methuen Monday.

RECORD-BUSTING VOTER TURNOUT

RECORD-BUSTING
VOTER TURNOUT

In the Representative district, including Ward One of Lawrence, No. Andover, all of Methuen except Precinct Three and this community, three Republicans were elected to the General Court.

Atty. Arthur Williams, whose tremendous Andover vote put him at the top of the field here, ran behind Giles and Longworth in the rest of the district. Giles topped the ticket with 18,486; Longworth ran second with 16,919 and Williams received 15,222 votes. The nearest Democrat was Maurice Lineham of Methuen, who polled 10,096 votes.

The Andover vote was:

Parents May Get Acquainted With Schools, Program

Parents of Junior High school students will have a chance to follow their youngsters' schedules, during "Back to School Night" Nov. 13.

Arranged around the class schedules, the program will allow parents to become familiar with their children's program as well as offering an opportunity to meet the teachers. Refreshments and a social half hour will be held in the cafeteria. An award will be made to the homeroom with the most parents attending.

Open house at Punchard on Thursday evening, Nov. 15, will find high school teachers in their rooms throughout the evening. Student guides will assist parents. There will be an opportunity for parents to talk with the teachers during the visit.

Headmaster Lindsay March has pointed out that the program is designed to "develop closer home and school relationships through parents and teachers sharing information which will enable both to better understand the problems of the children."

STANDING IN LINE TO PAY BILLS

What a waste of time when you could just as well sit in your home and pay all your bills for the month in a few minutes.

Too much balance required? Not at all. A couple of dollars opens a ThriftyCheck checking account and all you have to keep in it is enough to cover the checks you draw.

Too expensive for you? Not half so expensive as travelling from place to place to pay your bills.

No minimum balance is required in a ThriftyCheck account, no monthly service charge, only cost 10¢ per check, in books of 20.

EXETER-ANDOVER GAME SATURDAY

D'Angelo is a consistent former and a starter in every game in spite of a broken nose and several other minor injuries.

Another local boy who is a starter is Gil Bamford, who has been a 60-minute man for the team at fullback and a consistent productive performer.

Other starters are Manly Wheeler at quarterback who has been a 60-minute man all year; Bob Hall, at 145, is one of the lightest on the team but one of the scrappiest on offense and defense at his halfback position. Other starters in the backfield are Orant, who has been a consistent ground gainer all year and Ted Forstmann, brother of the Prep School quarterback last year while here at Andover and a first string quarterback on the Yale Freshmen Team. Up from the line is Otto Rogers of St. Clare, N. Y., and George Brown of Marblehead at the ends, Brown is up from the JV's and this is his second year on the squad.

Nick Gaede standing a tall 6' 5" is playing center - same position he plays during winter on the basketball team. This is Nick's second year on the squad and the fourth in the football system. Nappy MacNaughton, Panny and Tom Gildehaus stand the load at the guard spots. Sparky Lewis and Maumee, covering the other tackle spots.

Punchard emerges as a star favorite, but records don't mean a thing in these traditional games. Punchard's record is four wins and two losses. The Rangers' record is two wins and five losses.

Both teams have excellent quarterbacks; Bert Damon of Punchard and Larry Waite of Methuen. Blue and Gold also has four good running backs; Frank Carver, George Reed, Boots Bowman and Jim Bennett. Methuen's leading running back is Captain Art Waite. But this game looks like a contest of lines. The forward line that blocks the hardest and will win this battle for their team. The probable starting line for Punchard-r. e., Dave Pearson, t., Jack Reilly; r. q., Stephani; c., Bucky Dalton; l. wally Runge; l. t., Randy George; l. e., Bill McCullom; q. b., Bert Damon; l. h. b., Frank Carver; r. h. b., Boots Bowman; and l.

TOWN MANAGER CAMPAIGN STARTS

he on the March town election ballot.

The League of Women Voters, co-sponsoring the drive for adoption of the system, named two members to the committee to serve with two Taxpayers Association members.

Open Meeting

And as a first step in the campaign, the group announced an open meeting next Wednesday night, Nov. 14, at 8 in the Memorial Hall Library. Interested citizens will hear Mrs. Eunice L. Mannheim, a selectman in Amherst. She will tell about her experiences as a selectman under a manager form of government. Wolfson pointed out that Amherst is "reasonably similar" in size to Andover, both are basically residential communities and both are school towns. Thus, he said, Mrs. Mannheim's experiences should be informative for Andover voters.

Serving on the coordinating committee for the manager campaign are Mrs. George S. Laaf and Mrs. John Forbes of the League of Women Voters and Wolfson and George Grant for the Taxpayers Association. The group will furnish speakers, Wolfson explained, for any group in the community desiring to learn about the plan;

The Gymnastic Purpose

According to Donald D. Dunn, boys' physical education instructor at Punchard High school, the main objectives of a good gym program are five:

To build up boys' muscles by exercise and sports through power-conditioning;

To make the boys better coordinated and give them ability to withstand the physical and mental stress in our modern life;

To show them manners and teach them how to get along with other people;

To teach them sportsmanship; to play fairly with other boys in outside affairs as well as sports;

To help them to think and act without hesitation.

The results of a recent Cross-Webber test conducted in Europe and the United States showed that only eight percent of the European boys failed. Whereas 57 percent of the American boys failed. In the present grades eight-twelve at Punchard, 52 percent of the boys failed, however in the seventh grade the average was that of the country. This shows that the boys are not being properly trained, Dunn explained. With the large classes coming into school every year, the instructor finds it difficult to conduct these classes as he would like. Mr. Dunn feels that we need more classes of gym per week, smaller classes and therefore more instructors.

Senior Class Bakery Sale

The senior class will hold a bakery sale Saturday, Nov. 10, at Hill's Hardware Store on Main st. at 10 o'clock. All students of the class are supplying bakery goods. Those who do not are expected to pay 50 cents to the class treasury.

Lynne Cotter and Mildred Tangney are in charge of this affair.

Assembly
On Wednesday, Nov. 7, a Junior Red Cross assembly was held in observance of enrollment week.

Priscilla Reynolds, president of the Junior Red Cross, introduced the members of the council and spoke on the purpose of the organization as being "to stimulate good relations at home, abroad and to serve in conjunction with the Senior Red Cross."

Plans for a successful enrollment are well under way. All students were asked to make their contributions during the remainder of the week.

The officers and members are Priscilla Reynolds, president; David Simpson, vice president; Eleanor Webster, treasurer; and Sara Clift, secretary.

Barbara Colby, Alan Ober, Janice Snow, David Perkins, Sandra McBride, Cynthia Sullivan, Betty-Ann Lumenello, Marilyn Freeman and Katherine Nelligan also serve.

started four or five years ago by the cheer leaders as a means of building up school spirit before the Methuen game. Since that time the week preceding this important game has been known as "Blue and Gold Week."

The cheer leaders have colorfully decorated the halls with blue and yellow streamers and the students have been requested to wear the school colors during the week.

On Friday, during the sixth period, a rally will be conducted by the cheer leaders and the football captains. A second rally will be held on Friday night by the cheer leaders. This will start at 6:15 in Elm square. The band, members of the team, and those attending the rally will then proceed to the high school.

This spirited week will be climaxed by the Senior Class dance, "The Blue and Gold Hop," which will be held Friday night after the rally, from 8-11 in the Memorial Auditorium-Gymnasium.

A Three-piece band will provide music for dancing. Betsy Gilcreast, Social Committee chairman of the Senior Class, is the dance committee chairman. Committee heads are pastries, Susan Bird; refreshments, Carol Desrocher; chaperones, Sandra Nadeau; and music, Margaret Bouleau.

This dance will be a semi-formal affair. Boys must wear suit coats and ties. Girls must wear nylons.

Senior Class Meeting

The first meeting of the Senior Class was held Thursday, Nov. 1, President Charles Dalton called the meeting to order. The class voted to have a bakery sale Saturday, Nov. 9. Treasurer Frank Leone gave his report and suggested that all class dues of $4 be paid as soon as possible to homeroom treasurers. Several students are investigating other fund-raising activities which were suggested and discussed by the class. The class also voted unanimously to have a year book. The annual "Stunt Night Production" was mentioned and it was decided to bring the subject up again at the next meeting.

Atty. Stulgis said legal formalities had slowed down the filing process by the firm but that the matter would be available for court consideration as soon as the court sets a date for its hearing. That may be some weeks, or even months, away, Stulgis said. He pointed out that such matters are supposed to be put at the head of the court calendar, but many such matters are in the courts all the time. Thus, even though the writ goes to the top of the list, it may be preceded by several others.

Residents Opposed

Meanwhile, as the town and the Acme firm await court judgement, it was reported this week that a

The residents n't arrive at the Monday session, however, although reported that many persons in the area still feel strongly that it must be prevented from using the area and from moving its trucks in and out of the neighborhood.

New chlorine machinery, ever, has been installed. Present, he said it is expected that said it was necessary to put equipment in place for immediate day to day use.

That decision may be taken is believed, after the Nov. of the employees will be new bids on two reservoir tanks are ceived and opened. The town has also mentioned using the money from the reservoir appropriation for a study of the supply, if the bids come in enough. It has been assumed action on that study would be shortly if the funds are available. Camp, Dresser and McKee, engineering consultants, have said study could be made in the months.

ployers: power wiring to individual locations in the building; additional lighting; added fire exits and elevators; air conditioning and air filtering equipment for sections of the plant requiring them; increased power service to the building and the installation of cafeteria facilities.

Local Employment

Richard Axton, public relations director for the giant firm, told the TOWNSMAN that local contractors, if they are competitive in price, could be awarded contracts for these projects. He also pointed out that local labor certainly would be used by contractors whenever possible during the conversion period.

Although no date has yet been set, he said it is expected that as many as 200 employees will be at the plant by Jan. 1, 1957.

The remaining 800 would be added between then and September. Most of the employees will be new hires, hired as much as possible in the Greater Lawrence area. Axton said only a nucleus of trained personnel will be transferred to the plant to begin the production and train new employees.

Half Women

About half the estimated September force, or 500, will be women. Some 250 will be working in the administrative end - clerical, stenography, etc. - while the remainder will take over such production jobs as soldering, assembling and the like.

One big feature of the production in Shawsheen will be a machine shop, where much of the male help will be used. There has been, of course, no specific data on the type of unit to be produced.

No Danger

Axton said, however, that the company sees no possibility of there being anything dangerous, inside or outside the building. He also commented that it probably would be a somewhat quieter operation than was the textile business at its peak.

As far as the firm now knows, the employees will be on a regular day shift, with only maintenance crews and possibly a few others working other than daytime hours.

Depends On Contracts

Of the reported 6000 peak employment possibility at the mills Raytheon now does not know when that maximum might be reached. They have indicated a period of some five years, but Axton pointed out that future government contracts will be the deciding factor.

AGENTS REQUEST INSURANCE DIVISION

portion of the commission to other agencies doing business here.

That practice also came under fire at the session, with the agents claiming they'd rather take their chances on making the same amount of money while writing their share of the business than to continue accepting a share of the commission without the business.

"The kick back proposition is offensive to human dignity", claimed Joseph Doherty, president of the Doherty Insurance Agency, as he pressed the agents' case for a division of the business. He heartily agreed with Mr. White that no agency should be compelled to divide its commissions with others who have done no work. Rather, he urged, the insurance should be split so that all agencies have some of it after joint consultation has determined the best possible coverage for the town.

White told the men that he never has believed that the share system was of any benefit to the town — because whatever extra commission was added by the agency to allow for the division should more properly be turned over to the town itself. He pointed out that it is no more sensible for the town to require a division of the commissions than it would be for him to insist that he get a share of a competitor's profit whenever that person happens to do some business with the town.

Eugene Bernardin Jr. told the selectmen, at the meeting's start, that it is the group's feeling that "a good insurance man will do a job for his client at the least possible cost consistent with the best possible coverage". He explained that the group now offers no specific proposals but wants consideration of the philosophy of sharing the town insurance. However, the agents will, he said, make a thorough study of the insurance problems, based on present policies.

Many Divide It

Bernardin pointed out that many cities and towns, including neighboring Lawrence, share the business. "We feel such a situation should exist in Andover. You would get a better program and you would get better insurance", he continued.

Both Bernardin and Joseph Doherty several times referred to the value of having more than one agency consider the basic insurance problems facing the town, so that the community can have the advantage of several insurance philosophies rather than only one.

No Saving Guaranteed
Selectman White wanted to know whether any saving in dollars would come of the division or would better coverage be offered. In general, the group pointed out that it is impossible to say whether money could be saved. But James Doherty called the selectmen's attention to the possibility that much better coverage might be obtained for the same or slightly higher cost; or, perhaps, some saving might be accomplished. He stressed the necessity of getting the best possible coverage for the town rather than examining the problem as one of savings alone.

White reminded the agents that they had asked permission, many months ago, to look over the policies in effect and come up with a proposal. "Did you look into it? Have you suggestions?" he asked.

"The matter was closed before it was too widely opened", Bernardin explained. James Doherty reminded the selectmen that the board issued a statement shortly after that permission had been granted, saying there would be no change in the insurance business. "We read in the papers that we'd probably be batting our heads against a stone wall", he explained.

Joseph Doherty asked the selectmen if the only condition under which the business would be divided is a saving in dollars. He pointed out that in his eight years of public service in Connecticut towns, he found division of insurance business "to be a common practice". He continued "Any one insurance office might have a particular philosophy about insurance. It might over-cover or under-cover. It needs the best minds in the community to find out".

He suggested the division of the business as it now stands and the study of the insurance needs be undertaken concurrently.

Payments
He also asked that a breakdown of the past five years be made available, showing the exact amounts of commissions and how the various agencies were paid. Reading from a letter from the Smart and Flagg firm, he said it referred to the payments as being made under the instructions of the selectmen — but the selectmen said they do not presently know what percentage of the commissions are paid to other agencies. Mr. White agreed that the figures

Nadene Baker's Collection Of Statues Is Interesting Hobby

By The Press Club

Nadene Baker's hobby was chosen most interesting this week. She collects miniature horse and dog statuettes.

Since owning her own horse was impossible, Nadene decided that the next best thing would be collecting statues of them. Over a period of four years, she has accumulated approximately 25 statues.

Here are a few of her unusual ones: a small carved wooden horse from Mexico; ceramic ones from Florida and Virginia; and a metal one from California which stands almost a foot high. As far as the types of horses are concerned, she isn't particular. Nadene's collection includes Arabian stallions, Palominos, Morgans, Shetland Ponies, Thoroughbreds, Hunters and a Tennessee Walking Horse.

Boxers have always been Nadene's favorite kind of dog, and she is fortunate enough to own her own, Duke. Nadene's statues now number almost 30, ranging in sizes from 10 inches down to her smallest puppy, which is scarcely half an inch in height.

Nadene's collection not only adds to the decoration of her room but also serves to remind her of places she has travelled and friends who have given them to her.

derway will run to some $75,000 value in equipment and material, Desmond said routine customer opinion surveys have shown that many customers here now classify the service as "busy at times" as they comment "can't get the operator". Those problems, he indicated, should be solved by the new switchboard positions.

The dial system is anticipated for late in 1958, Desmond announced. He indicated that plans for that system, once figured for 1959, were pushed forward because of the rapidly-growing system here. Detailed plans for that system will be announced, perhaps in a few months, he said.

Esther Forbes Will Speak At Library Nov. 18

Readers who have thrilled to the book "Johnny Tremain" will be delighted to know that they will have the privilege of hearing the author, Miss Esther Forbes, at the library's annual "Open House", Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, at 3:30.

Miss Forbes is well known for her historical fiction and for her prize-winning history-biography "Paul Revere and the World He Lived In."

At 4 O'clock, she will speak on the subject "The Witches and their Literary Brood." This is a theme dear to her heart, as proven in her book "A Mirror For Witches", which is an account of demonology of seventeenth century New England.

New books will be on display and those who attend will have ample time to look them over and reserve titles which appeal to them. Light refreshments will be served.

POLICEWOMEN MAY DO SCHOOL TRAFFIC

school. The crossings may not be at the schools, he explained, but are nearby and require traffic direction in school hours.

Chairman Sidney P. White said the board has considered the move for some time. He reported favorable comment from one woman to whom he mentioned the possibility and said there should be no difficulty in obtaining the policewomen.

Chief Nicoll is now compiling facts on how other communities have handled such problems, uniforms, pay rates and selection of the policewomen. As soon as that is completed, the chief said he would be in a position to make specific recommendations. White expressed the belief that an hourly rate would be paid to women, who would be sworn as policewomen only for the purpose of traffic control for school children. They would not fall under civil service, it was understood.

Flying Feather Farm Will Be Part Of College

Some 80 acres of land in Andover will be developed by Merrimack College in its expansion program.

But the Very Rev. Vincent J. McQuade, president of the college, said this week no specific plans can yet be announced on the land's use.

The property, known as the Flying Feather Farm, lies off Elm st. near college boundaries. Originally purchased by the Realty Construction Co. for a housing development, the area became off-limits for building through expanded rules and regulations of the Planning Board. Judge Alfred Sartorelli, representing the Boston firm, told the Planning Board last week that a sale was in progress but refused to disclose the purchase price. He said papers will be passed within a month.

He asked the Board to grant an extension on a right-of-way leading to the Holihan property, abutting the Flying Feather Farm, so that it would have access to Elm st. The right of way was specified by the land court many years ago and would merely be extended. The board gave its approval.

Atty. Sartorelli informed the board that a large section of land across Elm st. would be developed by the firm. Original plans for the area included some 66 houses. Since that time, the area has been rezoned and other problems have come up relating to road grades. A proposition by the firm to provide many feet of water pipe for the town to extend a water main to service the area, for better water supply, has been turned down by the Board of Public Works on advice of its engineering consultants. Mr. Sartorelli did not indicate when the proposed building will start.

INSURANCE AGENTS SEEK DIVISION

made available. There was some discussion about the system having started in 1935 with something like 35 or 40 percent of the commissions being distributed to a growing number of agencies. Service Available

As the group of agents pressed their request for a share of the business, James Doherty pointed out that every agent has available the services of many of the best companies in the nation. Their engineers, rate experts and inspectors are as readily available as are those from the companies now holding the business. And he suggested that these men, whose every-day work it is to study insurance problems, would be in a better position to make recommendations than would any professional advisor that might be retained by the town. White had suggested that move as one way to find out exactly what the town needs in coverage without depending on firm representatives.

White also asked the agents if it would ever be possible for representatives of mutual companies to agree with those from stock companies. James Doherty explained that a Massachusetts standard policy must be used to start with, whichever type of company is involved.

Selectman Stafford Lindsay, pointing out that he had heard much discussion of this problem from J. Everett Collins when he was serving on the board and from the late Roy Hardy, asked whether other communities would divide the insurance business if the company in which the business is presently placed is a local one. He referred to the Merrimack Mutual as being a heavy taxpayer here as well as a firm in which a portion of the insurance business is now placed. Joseph Doherty promptly questioned the wisdom of placing it all in one place, commenting "it seems even more dangerous than I thought it was". James Doherty pointed out, however, that the town does business with the agents, not the company — in the same way that an automobile is purchased through an agent not from the factory. Doherty also said Merrimack Mutual does not now have the bulk of the town's fire insurance. And he stressed the fact that the local agents represent companies that are among the best in the business. Bernardin earlier had pointed out that many of the best firms are directly represented by local men and that they, by being brokers, can also place business with other companies as well.

Attending the meeting were the Dohertys, Richard Lally of the Shirley Barnard Agency, Douglas Howe of the Howe Insurance Agency and George Haselton of the Smart and Flagg firm. He emphasized that his role was that of an observer, however.

Register Before Tuesday For Polio Vaccine

Any parent or guardian who has a child between the ages of 6 months and 14 years who have not yet received their second inoculation of polio vaccine are requested to contact either their personal physician or the Board of Health on or before Tuesday, Nov. 13., according to Charles O. McCullom, chairman of the board.

This information is necessary in order to clear up all unfinished groups before the Board of Health can order more polio vaccine for the "Booster Dose Program" — third dose of polio vaccine — which is scheduled to start in December.
